THE LINCOLN CAR, A HISTORICAL RELIC.

This is the private car in which Abraham Lincoln used to ride when he was president. By contrasting it with some of the wheeled palaces which are furnished for the use of our chief executive today you get an idea of progress we have made in this direction in less than half a century, The rebuilding of the shops of the Union Pacific railway at Omaha has brought to light this relie of wartimes, around which cling the memories of the martyr president. In 1864 the government built the car to be president. It was most made use of lp his visits to the Potomac. The car was built at the United States military Army of the Potomac. carshops at Alexandria, Va. It is 42 feet long and 8½ feet wide and is divided into three compartments. It is fronclad, armor being set in between the ioner and outer walls, rendering it bullet proof. The car was used to convey the remains of Mr. Lincoln for interment at Springfield, Iil. At the close of the war the government auctioned off a great deal of its railway material, and the Lincoln car was sold to Sidney Dillon, the president of the Union Pacific, and T. C. Durant, who removed it to Omaha, A shed was built for the ear, and a man was engaged to watch and care for it. The intervening years have left their marks on the old relie.
